Every accounting software has a reconciliation feature where you enter the date of the statement and the ending balance, and proceed to check off the deposits and expenses that have cleared until you reach the point where the variance between what you say cleared the bank matches the bank's record exactly. WHEEE! The difference is ZERO!!

Nonprofit Accounting Reconciliation: Everything You Need ...

If at all possible, an individual other than the person writing checks and making deposits should reconcile the bank account each month. Many organizations hire an outside accountant or bookkeeper to perform this function to increase the internal controls surrounding cash. If the organization cannot afford to hire an outside accountant, the executive director (or the treasurer) should receive the unopened bank statement each month.
