A Basic Course in Moroccan Arabic is a textbook in spoken Moroccan Arabic that is written for beginners who are unfamiliar with the Arabic language, alphabet, pronunciation, vocabulary, and grammar. Written in Latinized transcription it is carefully designed to present these elements in a progressive, user-friendly, step-by-step manner. Following the initial pronunciation introductions and practice, there are 130 lessons consisting of a text where a small number of phrases and sentences illustrate grammatical points. These sections also contain exercises in new grammar and vocabulary. Each lesson is structured in a way that guides the learner naturally and comfortably into an understanding of the structure of Moroccan Arabic. From there, the course progresses into ninety-seven short, conversational dialogs that place the student in a variety of social situations. First introduced to Arabic language students in the 1960s, A Basic Course in Moroccan Arabic still has no equal for clarity and ease of use. also be of interest to teachers of other less-commonly taught languages (LCTLs), who struggle with similar issues.

Excerpt from Arabic Grammar, Paradigms, Litterature Chrestomathy and Glossary I acceded the more readily to the request made to me by the publisher of the "Porta linguarum Orientalium" to bring out a new edition of Petermann's Elementary Grammar of Classical Arabic (second edition 1876), because I had myself felt the need of a brief handbook of this description for use in university lectures. Notwithstanding all the excellences of the Arabic Grammars of Caspari-Muller and Wright I have often noticed that the beginner is apt to be deterred from continuing his Arabic studies by the amount of matter contained in these books, unless he is possessed of very great perseverance.
